To the Members of the Class of 1964:

Because of the work involved in planning the layout of the Tontoquonian, the editors have asked me to write in October the message which you will be reading in June. This is no small task, since it presupposes a foreknowledge of what lies ahead for you as a senior class.

The tragic fire in the Junior High School is already an actuality, however, and I am sure that in June you will recall a year, or at least several months, of inconvenience and annoyance. But, as seniors, you will have furnished to the underclassmen an example in readjusting your school life by sharing your rooms, your lockers, your desks, your extra-curricular time, your school.

I have no doubt that although your senior year will be subject to disappointments, you will have made the best of existing conditions.

Your spirit of cooperation in time of adversity will augur well for the future. Here you will have learned more than subject matter, important as that may be.

As you read this, you are jubilant that it is graduation time. The Class of 1964 is a great storehouse of ability, resourcefulness, and talent -- and strength of character. I am confident that beyond these walls you will meet the challenges that await you, and you will succeed.

My very best wishes to each of you as you enter the ranks of the alumni of Saugus High School.

Most sincerely, Gehton J. Navis

United States Pavilion

New York World's Fair 1964-1965

Bigger than a city block, the U. S. Pavilion at the New York World's Fair will seemingly "float" above the ground on four columns. Its two exhibit floors of almost 150,000-square feet will handle 40,000 visitors daily. As high as an 8-story building, the building's exterior walls will be fabricated from thousands of vari-colored glass pieces that reflect the sunlight during daylight hours, and glow with interior light at night. The monumental structure, designed by Charles Luckman Associates, is shown here as an architect's model.

C 1962 New York World's Fair 1964-1965 Corp.

Gas, Incorporated

New York World's Fair

1964-1965

GAS, INCORPORATED—A pure white structure featuring walls of air to heighten the illusion of transparency, houses a restaurant for 200, with an open, all-gas kitchen. Birds of brilliant plumage fly freely within the confines of the airy walls and searchlight plays on bubbling pools and special flower gardens, with electric power generated "on the spot" by gas. Air conditioning units, generators, and equipment are part of the functioning displays.

Newspaper Reporters

MR. JOHNSON

Kathleen Desmond, Pamela Emery, Nancy French, Joyce McNeill, Editors of the 1964 Tontoquonian, wish to express their deep appreciation to the members of each of the staffs for their hard work and cooperation; to Mr. Rowan, the representative of Balfour Company who has guided us on the road to a successful yearbook; to our photographers, Mr. Guy Quartarone and Mr. Peter Aiello; and last but by no means least, to Miss Towle and Miss Marison, our advisors, without whom this yearbook could not have been completed. Our special appreciation is for their understanding and patience in our "times of need."
